

Part-time JavaScript instructor

PROFESSIONAL & CONTINUING EDUCATION

JOB DESCRIPTION

UW Professional and Continuing Education has an outstanding opportunity for a part-time Instructor within its Certificate in Full-stack Development with JavaScript program. The current opening is for the first course in the three course program Programming for the Browser with JavaScript. The ten-week class meets on-line once a week in real time on Tuesdays, January 19 to March 23rd 6-9pm.

Requirements: A least five years of professional experience with JavaScript and web development.

- Ability to commit to one ten week course and develop lesson plans and presentation materials for 30 hours of instruction. A course outline and materials developed by the advisory board and previous instructor and ready for customization by hired instructor. The course will be supported by a hired instructional assistant.
- Ability to teach the course on the scheduled weekday evening, respond to student inquiries, be available online for classwork assistance or office hours, and provide student recruiting support. Expectations during the course comprise a minimum of 3 hours of weekly instruction and approximately 5 hours of preparation, student interaction, and grading outside of class time.
- Flexibility to adjust to student feedback and a willingness to teach with minimal supervision while maintaining high standards of professionalism, punctuality, and content relevance for adult students in a classroom and/or online environment.
- Ability to interact with individuals from diverse cultural and socioeconomic backgrounds.
- Excellent interpersonal, oral, and written communication skills.
- Legal authorization to work and receive compensation in the United States.

Compensation begins at $4500 for the ten week course.

To Apply: Please contact Paula McArdle at pmcardle@uw.edu

The University of Washington (UW) is proud to be one of the nation's premier educational and research institutions. UW Continuum College the continuing education branch of the University of Washington, has been building bridges between the UW and communities across the globe since 1912. UWEO provides broad access to and expands the high-quality educational programs of UW by serving the needs of diverse, global communities of learners through innovative, self-sustaining programs. Known for providing its excellent UW Professional & Continuing Education certificate programs and fee-based degree programs, UWEO emphasizes practical skill-building for working professionals looking to advance their careers or change industries. PCE certificates are awarded upon completion of a set of related courses totaling 90 hours of instruction. PCE offers certificate classes taught in the evenings by industry professionals in classroom (downtown Seattle or Bellevue), online, and blended environments.